1. On 9 November 1954, eight members of the planning bureau of the KVP department of of Interior in Berlin were fired for attending a six-day West Berlin. They were highly qualified experts be replaced.
2. Between 15 and 20 November, the Seehaus installation was inspected by Walter Ulbricht and Otto Grotewohl. Ulbricht strongly objected against the luxurious interior decoration of the installation, especially of the so called general staffbuilding. On 22 November, all orders referring to the interior decoration of this building had been cancelled on request of Ulbricht. It is the opinion of the planning bureau that this measure inevitably delays again the completion of the installation. 25X1
3. In early November, all orders referring to the interior decoration of this building had been cancelled on request of Ulbricht. It is the opinion of the planning bureau that this measure inevitably delays again the completion of the installation. 25X1
4. On 8 November, Lieutenant Colonel Pfennig (Imu), deputy commander in charge of political affairs and cadre chief of the VQN (Quartier - Nutzungs - Verwaltung - billeting and housing administration) was relieved from duty for unknown reason. Pfennig was allegedly transferred to the political school at Treptow but was not assigned a leading position. 2
5. In early November, closer ties were established between the KVP and the planning bureau Berlin of the 2d Section of the VQN. In future, the responsible VQN functionaries were to wear uniforms.
